

ISES 2015 Annual Meeting: First ever video contest!

Open to all ISES members and attendees of the 2015 Annual Meeting!

Do you want to help ISES get the word out about the importance of exposure science to environmental and ecological health?

Do you wish your family, friends, colleagues and the general public had a better understanding of your field and your research?

Here is your chance to create your own video telling your fellow scientists and the public at large about how your research is advancing the field and/or about the importance of exposure science.

All videos will be posted on the ISES YouTube channel:

<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UC5bCtgetknnlay0VNeLDUew>

A panel of exposure scientists will select a winner. Winner will have their video shown at the ISES 2015 Meeting and receive a prize. Videos may also be shown on the ISES website.

RULES:

Be creative!

Maximum length: 1 minute

Videos will be screened for content – they must be relevant to exposure science and be appropriate for all ages.

DEADLINE:

All videos must be received by June 1st in order to be included on the YouTube channel.

INSTRUCTIONS:

The following file types are supported: .MOV .MPEG4 MP4 .AVI .WMV .MPEGPS .FLV 3GPP WebM
Videos must be sent to Dr. Judy LaKind with the following method:

1. You must have a Google Drive account, go to www.drive.google.com.
2. To upload your video to Google Drive, click the upload arrow on the top-left part of the screen, and navigate to the correct file.
3. To share the file, click the check-mark next to the file name (or click the icon that looks like a person's head with a plus sign), then click the share button on the top of the screen. Share the file with Judy LaKind at lakindassoc@gmail.com.
4. Please remember to send your name and affiliation which will accompany your video.
5. When a file is shared with you, you will receive an email with a link to the file. Open the link and click the download button to download the file to your computer.

Disclaimer: ISES will be free to use submitted videos for the 2015 ISES Annual Meeting and for future Society business. Submitter understands that video content – including any data in the video -will be publicly available.